

In the Specification:

Please replace the existing abstract with the following new abstract:

A liquid crystal display including a liquid crystal display substrate, a main wiring layer made of Al or Al alloy and formed on the substrate, a protective layer containing refractory metal and formed on the main wiring layer. Preferably, an upper surface of the main wiring layer has an average roughness of 3 nm or larger.